Lotte Chemical

Government support needed for a smooth consolidation

Maintain TP of W64,000 and Hold rating

We maintain our target price of W64,000 and Hold rating on Lotte Chemical. While we expect government-led supply reforms and restructuring in China and Korea, China's oversupply and high export dependence make a near-term turnaround unlikely. That said, these measures are essential over the long term, and we believe the direction is appropriate. Recently, the company signed an MOU with HD Hyundai Oilbank to integrate their Daesan plants. We expect that if such voluntary consolidation efforts are supported by the government, the company's asset-light strategy could achieve a soft landing.

2Q25 review: Difficult operating environment persists

Lotte Chemical posted an operating loss of W244.9bn in 2Q25, missing both the consensus estimate of a W169.8bn loss and our estimate of a W190.8bn loss. Overall weakness persisted across the business, with LC USA performing notably worse than our projection, posting a loss of W38.4bn. We view the size of LC USA's deficit as substantial, even after accounting for lost production from scheduled maintenance at the MEG plant. Additional headwinds included buyer caution amid tariff uncertainties, narrower spreads from lower monomer product prices, and various plant turnarounds. The company cited one-off impacts in the quarter of W80bn from scheduled maintenance (Daesan basic chemicals and LC USA MEG) and W18bn from a weaker USD/KRW rate; we also estimate an approximately W60bn negative impact from naphtha inventory effects.

3Q25 preview: Modest improvement expected

We forecast an operating loss of W115.1bn for 3Q25, an improvement from 2Q25, led by better results in basic chemicals (loss narrowing from W216.1bn to W112.9bn). Key drivers include: a favorable base effect from scheduled maintenance in the previous quarter, partial resolution of tariff uncertainties, and removal of naphtha inventory effects.

With limited downside risk to oil prices from end-June levels, we expect minimal negative impact from naphtha inventory in 3Q25. That said, some tariff-related uncertainty remains, and the summer vacation and low-demand season will likely limit expectations for a fundamental improvement in the company's performance.
